

GOVERNORS' OFFICE
AUSTIN, TEXAS.

O.B. COLQUITT, GOVERNOR.
J.T. BOWMAN, PRIVATE SECRETARY.

April 2, 1913.

Hon. John L. Wortham,
Secretary of State,
Capitol.

Dear Sir:

Section 14 of Article 4 of the Constitution provides that any bill passed by the Legislature and presented to the Governor within ten days prior to the adjournment of the Legislature, Sundays excepted, and which may be objected to by him, may be returned to the house from which it originated, unless the Legislature by its adjournment prevents its return, in which case the Constitution provides the Governor may file in the office of the Secretary of State, and give notice thereof by public proclamation within twenty days after such adjournment, his objections thereto.

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution above referred to, I am filing herewith, without approval, House Bill No. 88, the same being

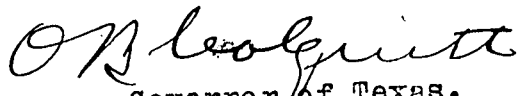

"AN ACT to create the Seventy-seventh Judicial District of the State of Texas, to be composed of the County of El Paso, etc.,"

With the judicial reform bills passed by the Legislature just adjourned, it is my opinion that this additional Judicial District is unnecessary, and because of the extra expense it will entail upon the State the same is filed with the Secretary of State without approval.

Yours truly,

Governor of Texas.
